The Saudi Ministry of Education and relevant authorities officially announced holiday periods based on the Islamic lunar calendar and national events.

Winter Break (Mid-Year Vacation)

Usually scheduled around late December, lasting approximately two weeks. The exact dates often overlapped with the Christmas period, although Christmas is not a national holiday in Saudi Arabia.

Eid Holidays

Eid al-Fitr and Eid al-Adha led to extended breaks, often ranging from 3 to 7 days, sometimes with additional days off for travel and family gatherings.

- Schools closed for approximately 5-7 days, beginning just before the Eid days and resuming after the festival.

Schools observed a holiday on this day, often with additional days off if the holiday fell near a weekend or during a school break period.

Regional Variations and Implementation

While the Ministry provides general holiday schedules, regional authorities and individual schools may adjust dates slightly based on local lunar observations and operational considerations.

Urban vs. Rural Differences

- In larger cities like Riyadh, Jeddah, and Dammam, holiday observance tends to align closely with official dates.
- In rural areas, the start of Islamic holidays may vary slightly due to local lunar sightings, leading to minor discrepancies.

Private vs. Public Schools

- Private educational institutions often follow the national calendar but may have some flexibility.
- Public schools strictly adhere to official holiday dates; private schools sometimes extend breaks or schedule additional days off.

Breaks allow students to recover from academic stress, participate in family and religious activities, and prepare for upcoming terms.

Holidays like Eid foster communal prayers, charity, and family gatherings, reinforcing Islamic values.
